Code Sections	Mississippi Code Sections • 41-29-115: Schedule II of Controlled Substances (includes Cocaine) • 41-29-139: Prohibited Acts & Penalties • 41-29-140: Fines & Penalties
Possession	The penalty for possession of cocaine (not to sell it) in Mississippi depends on the amount of coke in the defendant's possession: • Under 0.1 gram of coke, is a misdemeanor penalized by less than 1 year in jail and a fine of up to $1,000. • For 0.1 to 2 grams, it's a felony that you can get no more than 3 years and a fine of up to $50,000 • For 2 to 10 grams, the penalty is up to 8 years and up to a $250,000 fine • For 10 to 30 grams, it's 3 to 20 years and not more than a $500,000 If you have over 30 grams of coke when you're arrested, you'll be tried for trafficking cocaine.
Sale	Mississippi drug laws are highly discretionary for knowingly or intentionally selling, bartering, manufacturing, or possessing with the intent to sell. The penalties are also based on the amount of coke: • Less than 2 grams, not more than 8 years and a $50,000 fine • From 2 to 10 grams, not less than 3 nor more than 20 years and at most a $250,000 fine • Over 10 grams, the sentence is from 5 to 30 years in prison and up to a $500,000 fine Paraphernalia In addition to selling drugs being illegally, selling paraphernalia or items to be used with drugs (if you should reasonably know that's the purpose of the item) is also illegal. For example, selling a crack pipe to use with crack cocaine is illegal. This is a misdemeanor that can get you up to 6 months in jail and a $500 fine usually. If a person over 18 sells to a child under 18, who's at least 3 years younger, it's a misdemeanor that you can go to jail for up t 1 year and a fine of up to $1,000. Drug Money Knowingly or intentionally receiving money derived from drug sales and financing or investing in felony drug offenses are both illegal. The penalty is not more than 5 years in prison and a $1,000,000 fine or both.
Trafficking	Trafficking in controlled substances means either more than 30 grams of coke in your possession or to have three or more selling offenses in a 12-month period or having 30 grams of coke to sell. However, prior convictions can't be used to establish trafficking (that could be double jeopardy which the U.S. constitution prohibits). If you're found guilty of trafficking cocaine, you can get life in prison without suspension or parole, the mandatory minimum is 10 years. In addition, you'll be fined between $5,000 and $1,000,000. However, this section doesn't apply to informants who help arrest or prosecute other violators of these drug laws. This is likely to encourage taking down an entire drug ring, rather than only a few members.

Code Section	Mississippi Code Sections • 41-29-113: Schedule I of Controlled Substances (includes heroin) • 41-29-139: Prohibited Acts & Penalties • 41-29-140: Fines & Penalties
Possession	In Mississippi, the penalty for possession of heroin, for personal use and without the intent to sell it, depends on the amount of heroin the defendant had when caught: • Possessing under 0.1 gram of heroin is a misdemeanor penalized by less than 1 year in jail and a fine of up to $1,000. • For 0.1 to 2 grams, it's a felony that you can get no more than 3 years and a fine of up to $50,000 • For 2 to 10 grams, the penalty is up to 8 years and up to a $250,000 fine • For 10 to 30 grams, it's 3 to 20 years and not more than a $500,000 If a defendant is arrested with over 30 grams of heroin, the criminal charge will be trafficking in heroin, not possession.
Sale	Mississippi prohibits knowingly or intentionally selling, bartering, manufacturing, or possessing with the plan to sell heroin. The penalties are based on the amount of heroin sold or possessed to sell: • Less than 2 grams, can receive up to 8 years in prison plus up to a $50,000 fine • From 2 to 10 grams, the penalty is less than 3 nor more than 20 years and at most a $250,000 fine • Over 10 grams, the sentence is from 5 to 30 years in prison and up to a $500,000 fine For some drug crimes, if the defendant wasn't the leader, didn't use a weapon or violence, and didn't cause anyone's death, then the sentence can be suspended as long as at least 25% of the statutory sentence is served. This is at the judge's discretion and the reasons for the departure from the normal sentencing must be stated on the record. This discretion opens the door for racial disparities in sentencing.
Trafficking	Trafficking in controlled substances can be charged if you have or try to sell more than 30 grams of heroin. Also, if you are arrested for selling smaller amounts of heroin at least three times in a 12-month period or it's also trafficking. However, any prior convictions for drug sales can't be used to establish trafficking. The U.S. Constitution prohibits charging people twice for a crime, called double jeopardy. The penalty for trafficking heroin is at least 10 years to 40 years in prison or life in prison without suspension or parole, plus a fine between $5,000 and $1,000,000. You can also be charged with aggravated trafficking for having at least 200 grams of heroin and be sentenced to a minimum of 25 years and not more than life in prison. The fine is $5,000 to $1,000,000 still. The 25 years minimum can't be suspended, Also, this life in prison penalty doesn't apply to informants who help arrest or prosecute other violators of these drug laws. This is likely to encourage taking down an entire drug ring, rather than only a few members.

Drug Paraphernalia	Selling drug paraphernalia or items to be used with heroin, coke, marijuana, etc., if you should reasonably know that drug use is the purpose of the item, is also illegal. For example, selling needles, spoons, and large rubber ties to shoot up heroin is illegal. Typically, it's a misdemeanor penalized by up to 6 months in jail and a $500 fine. However, if the seller is over 18 sells and the buyer is a child under 18, who's at least 3 years younger, it's a misdemeanor still, but the penalty is increased to at most 1 year in jail and a fine of up to $1,000.
Drug Crime Financing	Knowingly or intentionally receiving money that comes from heroin or other drug sales is illegal. So is financing or investing in felony drug offenses. The penalty for this crime is not more than 5 years in prison and a $1,000,000 fine or both.
